

CDMP Certificate Conversion & Fees

After you obtain the CDMP, you are eligible to use your exams to convert to another certification program that the ICCP handles. The rules are as follows:

- Your exams must satisfy other the certification exams' requirements:
 - You can use the IS Core exam, Data Management Core exam and the third exam you have taken for the CDMP for the CCP. All exams must have been passed at 70% or better.
 - Taking the IS Core, Data Management Core and Data Warehousing exams will qualify you for both the CDMP and TDWI's CBIP. Both programs have similar Practitioner and Master levels. All exams must be passed between 50 – 69% for the Practitioner level and at 70% or better for the Mastery level.
- Your work experience must qualify for the other certification programs' experience requirements:
 - For the CCP, you need 4 years of IT work experience.
 - For the CBIP, you need 4 years of IT work experience for Mastery level and 2 years of IT experience for Practitioner level
 - For either certificate, up to 24 months of the experience requirement can be substituted with the appropriate undergraduate or graduate degree
- Conversion fees are payable to the ICCP office and are as follows:
 - CCP - $125 USD
 - CBIP - $300 USD
- You can indicate on your CDMP application that you want to use the CDMP for either the CCP or CBIP at the same time you register for an exam. You can also contact the ICCP office afterwards.
